PROKEN THES-A SOLDIER'S LOVE-A FICKLE Woman,-An affair demonstrating the fickleness of woman's love, has recently transpired in this city. Wm. Albert, more than three years ago enlisted in a regiment—the gallant Lonis- effect of its passage would have been to adville Legion-and went forth to battle for the vance the price of gold and still further derange Old Flag and the cause of the Union. When onr finances. When will public men learn that he donned the Federal blue, shouldered bis gun and bade adien to home, he left behind a maiden in tears; and, throughout the loag and weary marches, the scenes of strife and battle the memories of that honr were sweet and holv to him, and when the war was over, the fulfilment of loves plighted vows was to be the realzation of the glorions dream. The three years passed away, and America had furnished many pages of bistory to the world. The soldler hall served his country with honor, was discherged from the service, received his hounty, and bronzed by the winds and suns of many a campaign, he was again among the scenes of home and a tireless lolterer by the side of the maiden whose lm-

age was enshrined in his heart, and the memories of whom had proved so sweet in mony hitter hours. The maiden's name was Hannah Kuhne, and she resided with her willowed mother on Seventcenth and Rowan streets. She | Cade, nor does he live precisely in a time when greeted her soldler lover with the fraukness and so little is known of political economy; but tenderncoo of old, and Albert wandered in a bis bill to bring gold to a level with an trance—love's elyslum—and was a firm believer in the constancy of woman. Life's young sky preposterons than any of the schemes of Shakewso full of sunshine, and not a doubt of the felthfulnes of Hsunah flitted across the mind of the soldier to shadow for a moment the truthfuluess of his dream. He was a devoted worehlpper at the sbrine of her beauty, and love was blind to every fault. He rusted her implicitly, and the day for the conummation of the nuptial vows was chosen. Offristmas, merry Christmae, with its joys end lood of golden memories, was appointed as the usppy day. The hridal costnmes were prepared and the guests invited. Albert looked upon Hannah as his wife, and he entrusted her with his financial matters. Three hundred dollars, the savings of his meagre earnings in the army, were placed in her hands for safe keeping. But sunshine cannot always last, and clouds must come to dispell the brightness of many a plessant dream. Last Saturday, Hannah, the bliudr trusted Hanuah, this false and tickle maiden. uddenly disappeared from the city, leaving her travelling expenses. It appears that another had wooed and won her, and she could no longer practise an artful deception. The appointed wedding day was fast approachius and to avoid a marriage-the bestowal of a hand without a heart—she fled from home, and now is a wanderer among strangers, far from the parental roof and early friends. The dream has been rudely broken; the bright image so long enshrined in the beart of the brave soldier, is now a mournful wreck, and, rendered wiser by ove's ernel lesson, he is no longer a firm believer in the constancy of woman. Alas, the golden chain, woven by Cupid's wiles, is severed, love's ties are sundered, and a noble heart is blighted

by the tickleuess of a blindly trusted maiden. INTERNATIONAL CURLING MATCH.-The To onto Globe of Monday has the following inrelation to the proposed International Curling Match: "A meeting of delegate curlers, from the various clubs in Canada, will be held at the Royal Hotel, llamilton, to-day, for the purpose of taking steps for the holding of a grand International bonspeil between Canada and the United States. We believe that the eurlers of both countries have entered keenly into the matter, and there is every probability of the great match coming offsome time early in January. The Canada men can muster forty firstclass rinks, but as the Americana can n only twenty-five rinks, it will be necessary to choose from the Canadians a corresponding number of players. It has not yet been decided where the play will take place. Some talk of Buffalo, others of Rochester, while a great many hiuk the Central Park, New York, would be the best place. However, this question will be settled at the meeting to-day. We trust that every necessary arrangement will be made, in order that the affair may turn out as successful. y as its proposers hope."

Referring to the recent visit of Hon. Mr srtier to Washington, the Quebec Chronicle sys it was "of the most satisfectory character. The reception of the Attorney-General east was most cordial, sud we learn with the highest satsfaction that he was enabled to explain away nony little but not the less irritating impresions. In this respect Mr. Cartier's sojouru in he States has been opportune in the extreme There are just now so many causes for misure erstanding, and so many parties interested in disrepresenting to the Federal nuthorities the nimus of the Canadian Government in its action upon the cases of international law which have nisen, that the presence of a leading member of our Government at their capital was mos timely. The social qualities of the honorable gentlemsn would do more to soften down as perities in half an hour than diplomatic communication would have effected in a month We rejoice to hear that such has been accom-

In Troumin -Chicago people are in trouble all the time, and these accumulate with every return of the season. The smells of their rive have frozen in, and their mud become congeald. The latest thing that attracts the attention of the people, is the "milk-question." It is asented that the product of "still-fed" cows is old for "pure country milk." And, as though his stuff was not bad enough, it is wateredrobably with river water. A few days ago one these milk venders stopped at a house to nuw lils milk, and the lady of the honse declares he saw a school of little fish in the hottom of ie ean, probably the product of the best cow a the drove. This is rather a rich joke on the tizens of that city of summer smells and inrruptible aldermen.

A man in Falrfield, Ohio, stole forty-five ollars in greenbacks. By statute in that State, he stealing of $35 constitutes grand larceny, which is a penitentiary offence. The Republi can lawyer who defeuded him, pleaded that the tatute contemplated $35 in value, and that as the notes stolen were worth less than the sum u gold, the prisoner was only gullty of small areeny. The court sustained the plca, and the rogue escaped the prison.

How to Make Writing Indeltele .- A corondent of the Rural New Yorker gives the llowing information, which may prove sericeable to some of our readers:

A great many valuable letters and other wri-ings are written in pencil. This is particularly the case with the letters our brave soldiers send the case with the letters our brave soldiers send home from the army. The following siapple process will make lead pencil writing or drawing as indelible as if done with ink: Lay the writing in a shallow dish and pour skinmed milk upon it. Any spots not wet at first may have the milk placed upon them lightly with a feather. When the paper is all wet over with the milk take it up and let the milk drain off, and whip off with the feather the drops which collect on the lower edge. Dry it carefully, and it will be found to be perfectly indelible, it cannot be removed even with India rubber, it is an old recipe and a good one.

The Albany Journal rejoices over the WOI NDED OF THE 4TH A. C. IN THE BATTLE OF NASHVILLE, DEC. 15, 196.

Wol NDED OF THE 4TH A. C. IN THE BATTLE defeat of Mr. Stevens's gold bill, and says: "This was right. The bill was crude, impracticable, ridiculously sweeping in its provisions. The effect of its passage would have been to advance the price of gold and still further derange our finances. When will public men learn that something more than estautory enactments are necessary to restore a vitlated entrency to hesith?"

We have not seen a single newspaper that gave the least countenance to this project. The New York Poet calls it absurd legislation, and says "Stevens signalized his return to Congress by a silly project for making water run up hill, and for turning the wind to a new point of the compass by sillting the weathercock. He wanted to regulate the price of gold, which is as much subject to the eternel laws of trade as the tide, lotter rise and fall, is to those of nature, by an ect of Congress. Resolved, said Jack Cade to lies silmiring companions, that there shall be ln England seven half-penny loaves sold for a penny; the three-hooped pot shall have ten hoops; and I will make it felony to drink email heer. Mr. Stevens is not so ignorant as Jack Cade, nor does he live precisely in a time when so little is known of political economy; but his bill to bring gold to a level with an irredeemable paper currency is searcely more. irredeemable paper currency is scarcely more opeare's leader of the populace." We think the dominant porty will be looking about for a new Chairman of Wave and Means before the meeting of the next Congress. Old Thad Is played ont. The Post ventllates the scheme most thoronghly. It says: The first effect of this plan to keep gold down by catching it in a net and holding it down, was to send it up like one of those red bladders that the boys bell in the streets. If Congress had not promptly laid the mischievous scheme on the table, gold would have been at three hundred nefore next Saturday uight. All other com-nodities would have gone up in proportion, and poor and rich alike would have been suband poor and rich alike would have been subjected to new extortions on the part of traders. A second effect of the fatal measure would have been to drive gold, by the bushel or barrelfull, ont of the country, into foreign keeping. Already we are told that hundreds of merchants had began to hoard It, to secure themselves against the penulties of a bill which, under a pretext of suppressing speculation, was more likely to suppress commerce itself. That our readers may see what this bill was, we insert an outline of it:

The Tocis Gerat Men Work Wirn.—It is not tools that make the workman, but the trained skill and perseverance of the mau himself. Indeed, it is proverbial that the bad workman never yet had a good tool. Some one asked Opie by what wonderful process he maked his colors. "I mix them with my brains, sir," was his reply. It is the same with every workman who would excel. Ferguson made marveileus things—such as his wooden clock, that actually measured the hours—by means of a common penkuile, a tool in everybody's haml, but then every body is not a Ferguson.

A pan of water and two thermometers were that tools by which Dr. Black discovered latent heat; and a prism. a lens, and a sheet of pasteboard enabled Newton to unfold the composition of light and the origin of color. An eminent foreign savan once called upon Dr. Wollasten, and requested to be shown over his laboratories, in which science had been enriched by so many important discoveries, when the Doctor took him into a little study, and, pointing to so old tea-tray on the table, containing a few watchedbases teachers. have?" K do do K do do K do do [For the Londaville Journal.] THOUGHTS FOR OUR ARMY-NO 6 IMPROVEMENT IN PROJECTILES.

SY THOMAS MILLS, 34TH N. J. VOLS., AUTHOR O MECHANUS, OF MATHEMATICS, ETC., ETC. Years of war, as desolating as decimating hear of war, as decimating as decimating, has, from its mournful results, forced on the scientific world the recognition of the importance of artillery by perfecting its enginery and extending its range. No country or age has offered greater inducements to the inventor for improvements in ordnance, for long since it was scinitive that the value of any appliance that would really extend the range of guns cannon which have astonished the military world by their weight, power, and mechanical perfection. Yet, desirable as our cflorts may have then, there still remains a field worthy of any study that the ingenious ran bestow upon it, which is simply the perfecting of projectiles, for shot that would reach the enemy, from a point of safety, would be impossible. No man will unestion the value of a nevable. No man will question the value of a shot that would herease the range of cannon twenty per cent on present results, and to this end I now essay, for any one will admit that it would be better to land in the works of an enemy ten pounds of iron, while out of range of his guns, than to throw double that weight while within reach of his guns; so this principle will be the text of the present article.

within reach of his gums; so this principle will be the text of the present article.

As war involves expenditure, I do not propose to bring in my study economy in the shape of material, nor yet of workmanship. Still, I do reach economy through victory, for by disorganizing or disconcerting an enemy we hasten sul mission to law and order, when, having no more buttles to fight, we could discharge our armies, and thus save millions per diem; hence, any thing in material that hastens peace through the trimuph of arms is economy in war, as now in dertake to estimate the cost and loss of life, the neressity of increasing the range of artillery becomes manifest. To do this by hereasing the weight of ordnance to the maximum now wrought, would be impracticable with the army in motion, so we are forred to try devices more capable of rapid transportation, so that we can drive troops from their works by making them intenable, and hold the major part of our force to finish them when they leave such works.

The method I propose is, to make of wrought iron a strong cylinder or barrel, closed at the base, and suited to the caliber of ordnance for seige or field service (which we will suppose this cylinder to be ten inches in length, and to weigh fifteen pounds), which we charge with that growth a has, when win be punctured at points denoting seconds of time. This fuse will be ignited by the discharge of the piece, and will separate at the highest point of the tajectory the forward from the rear part of the nojectile, which will give to the forward part a new velocity while it checks the momentum of he rear part, by which means we extend the e rear part, by which means we extend the Now, let us suppose a shot, of the kind we three miles, without the aid of any additional force from second discharge, and that the fuse was ignited by the discharge of the gun, and that the original velocity was two thousand feet per second, which would give the projectile a striking force of tiffy thousand pounds, moving with a velocity of one foot per second, and that at the highest point on the trajectory the separation to take place—then the advantages of this theory would be plainly seen, for the forward and lighter part would extend the curve, while the rear would drop to the earth, which point of deesent would be, of course, in front of line of battle. If a shot as above should have had its momentum reduced by resistance of the air, the battle. If a shot as above should have had its momentum reduced by resistance of the air, the gain, as above remarked, is clear. It may be miged that the rear of the projectile would be so short and light that the forward part might take up a course foreign from that intended. This would not be probable, for it is a well-settled principle in philosophy that bodies in motion persist in keeping their original direction when such movement was originated on the centre of gravity or gration, which is the only thing in the riffs theory of value, for without the shot persisting to revolve on this new axis the rotation of the projectile would be valueless. So that any force imparted to a ball from the rear could not change the line of projection excepting the curve, sprung of projection excepting the curve, sprung by gravity alone for drift, would take place with any shot revolving on line of projection. The bore of this eylindro-conical shot will be grooved along its length, while the forward part will be fashioned to fit in these grooves, so as to prevent any motion but that forced by the rifling of the gray about the line forced by the rifling of the gray about the line. groves, so as to prevent any motion but that forced by the rifling of the gun along the line of fire. The head of this shot may be wrought for a shell or not. In either case we would extend the range through duplication. This shot may be fashioned to possess any of the peculiarities of projectiles now used without impairing the priaciple of duplication, so that when used from the heavy guis now before Bleymond we would be able to rais on

ion. Let the principle be tested and felt. England and Turkey are the only two countries in Europe that show a good surplus in the hunget over the expenditure. The fact is an odd one, and shows that the Sultan has been putting his affairs in order. The Turkish hunget is about fourteen millions and a half, and there is a quarter of a million surplus this year.

Our correspondence and despatches wil give onr readers a full knowledge of the manner in which Geu. Thomas has whipped the rebel Hood. THE MILITIA AND THE GUERILLAS.—W. M Allen, Lientenant-Colonel of the militia of Jef ferson county, publishes a stirring appeal to our citizens, calling upon them to organize, and b prepared at all times to protect their property and houses from the depredations of armed gue rilla hands. Of late, the outrages of marauding gangs have become so bold that it is necessary to take some measures to bring the outlaws to punishmeut. Our regnlar military forces are not always prepared to afford protection to the citizens, as they have not sufficient men mount ed to send in pursuit of the horse-thieves, and expel them from the country. By organizing the milltia, a reserve will always be in readiness and the wild, bloodthirsty earcer of the outlaws can be brought to a close. It should be the duty of the citizens to protect the country against their depredations. They are outcosts from society, and are in open rebellion against and in armed resistance to the civil law. They do not damage the military situation, but simply make war upon private individuals to gratify revenge and to plunder and destroy. The reople-not the milltary-suffer by the outrsges; therefore, they should organize and be ready to defend themselves against such attacks. Our militia force is ample to afford protection to the country. If an organization is properly effected an Immense amount of good can be done. The guerillas will learn to respect private rights, and when a few of the guilty parties are hunted down and brought to justice, it will have a good effect everywhere upon the marauding gangs, especially those operating in our imme diate vicinity. We trust that Lieut.-Colone Alleu's call will not pass unheeded. Let the citizens come together, let them organize, go earnestly to work, and inaugurate a policy t exterminate the cowardly, thieving guerillas and restore quiet to our distracted State.

Noteware, Secretary of State. A Nevada Paper says: "The first sessions of the Legislature will commence Monday, Demember 12th and thereafter on the first Monday in January of every second year. The Legislature to com mence with will consist of eighteen Senatore and thirty-six Assemblymen. The Schator first elected shall draw for long and short terms, one-half going ont the day after the general election in 1866, and the other half two years later. The same rule also applies to Assemblymen. As soon as the Legislature is organized the new Governor will be inaugurated and the other State officers installed. The District Court for Storey county will open on the first Monday in December, and continue in session until the long-accumulating calendar is cleared.'

The President of the Nevada branch of the United States Sanitary Commission has issued an address to the citizens of Nevada, in which he refers and dwells upon the good they have done through their contributions to the Sanitary Fair. He says that, when peace becomes a peace in fact-when the records of States and Territories, reviewed by future generations, to know who sustained and helped the Government in her greatest trial-then the historian will point to Nevada's star, and prove by her sanitary contributions that she too was loval. and hail her as the "Liberal and Loyal Nevada." A NEW AI MEASUREMENT OF VESSELS.-The act of Congress passed May 6, 1864, providing for a new admeasurement of all the vessels huilt or owned in the United States, for the purpose of adjusting their nominal tonnage, goes into effect on the 1st of January, 1865. This law will involve considerable expense to our merchants and ship-owners, and a corresponding addition to the custom receipts. The fees hitherto have been two dollars each vessel; now, in cases of vessels of good size, the fees will probably average twenty-five to fifty dollars. The register tonnage is to include not only the hulls of vessels (as usnal), but the cabins and all available space under the spar-deck. Sherman's ride from Atlanta to Savannah, was an "agreeable" trip, and he did not lose a wagon, while his teams looked hetter than when they started. Fort McAllister, which resisted the hombardment of our monltor fleet in 1863, is now Sherman's base of snpplles, and is on the lower hank of the Ogcchee river. His army is in splendid condition, and there is not a doubt that Savannah will be taken.

ondence of the Louisville Journal.] NASHVILLE, Dec. 17, 1861. I have just witnessed one of the most brilliant victories our arms have yet achieved. Brilliant in point of generalship, bravery, and success. The chances were against us. We were on the aggressive. The enemy, well posted, well disciplined, infatuated with an overweening confidence in numbers and morate, and strongly ln_ trenched, was on the defensive. Ilood, either from ignorance or with design, published a congratulatory order to his troops Immediately after the battle of Franklin, in which he assured them that we were weak, defeated, and demoralized, and that, at small cost, Nashville would be theirs with all its hooty, eanty, and stores. He besieged the city and blockaded the Cumerland, one of our principal lines of communication. He was boastful too, gave military solrees at the elegant residences within his lines near the city, and expressed his determination to possess the city. Days passed. The assault was delayed. Provisions were growing short, and Thomas, who never rests with anxlety, resolved to have the one and relieve the other.

OPERATIONS ON THE 15TH. Orders were issued on the night of the 14th for an advance on the following morning at six. A scratch of a pen to a few lines gave to the camps a bustle and excitement that had not marked them for several days.

Gen. R. W. Johuson held with bis division of cavalry the right of our line, extending to the river. Gen. Croxton joined him on the fit, and Hatch's cavalry next on the left touched. J. Harrison charged again—the 16th Illinois cavalry immediately in front of the battery, and the 7th Ohio and 5th Iowa on the January, 1861, in gold coin, of $8 51; in currency, $15 13.

One can hardly appreciate, without witnessing, the magnificent orecision with which our forces moved. No ield that I have been on, when corps, divisions, and brigades were manguarding for battle, every aggreeted as forcibly as this, the idea of a chessioned. If the solony dark line, those little cause. the new advance with the interest of missery, the two renembent and now at a charge, now credied now cronching like a tiger for a spring, olding and unfolding, doubling and nndoning, were pieces ou a chess-board, it seemed onld have played his forces with no more eas

It was military science employed to perfection; it was a hero who had reputation and honor at stake, laboring not more for these than for the success of the greatest cause men ever bled for. It was a mind filled with more plans than a clock with wheels, and final, decisive victory the key. But to the story. A. J. Smlth, wheeling elightly to the left, drove the enemy before him wherever he found him, picking np an occasional battery and shooting the enemy's own missiles at his ragged

It made a red page for history, but it emblazoned our escutcheon with brilliant deeds, and wrote the names of brave men on the lasting national seroll of honor, to which generations yet to will look for thining examples—for gallant come will look for thining examples—for gallant deeds to enulate.

I have left the 23d corps in reserve on the left in my letter thus far. From the frequent reconnoissances in force, made by Steedman, since the appearance of the enemy in front, he naturally interred that our principal assault would be against his right, and hence had massed against our left the principal portion of his army. In fact, to continue the delusion, Steedman left his works early in the day, and feigned to be preparing an assault. Three or four times he advanced against the enemy, who as often believed the movement a gennine opening of the struggle. In these reconnoissances the colored troops behaved in a very soldierly manner, and displayed bravery of the true ring. In speaking of the haved in a very soldierly manner, and displayed bravery of the irue ring. In speaking of the coloied troops, let me not omit to mention the excellent manner in which they are officered, and the commendable conduct of the officers commanding them. Col. Morgan, commanding the brigade on Steedman's left, has tested the mettle of his men on several occasions during this trist, and they invariably perform their work well. With the object more of doing instice to a brave man, a zealous soldier, and an industrions officer, than of paying a simple tribute to a personal friend, I insist that, to his genuine soldierly qualities and inspiring example, is due very greatly the good behavior of his brigade.

Col. Charley Thompson's brigade I will have occasion to speak of in the course of the narrative. Of the white troops, under Gen. Steedman, commanded by Col. John G. Mitchell and Col. Biddle, it is only necessary to say that they are commanded by Col. John G. Mitchell and Col. Biddle, it is only necessary to say that they are veterans; that, carrying on their hanners the names of at least a dozen of our flercest battles, their record is written. They need no encomium from me. Attribute to the digression admiration of hrave deeds, while I proceed. All the whila that Steedman was fighting to deceive the enemy, our cavelry was pressing his left back and doubling him on his centre. Hood, perceiving the deception, attempted to repair the damage to his line by bringing to his left birseserves. His columns were plainly visible marching hastily by the left flank. To counteract this movement Schoffeld was ordered to our right, and came in sea. J. Smith was wheeling victoriously against ss A. J. Smith was wheeling victoriously against the rebel left. In anticipation, too, of the stringgle being made on the centre and left, the enemy had greatly strengthened his skirmish line, and it seemed since t madness to assault this hill in front. Wood, who never shins a fight, but rather centra a bout wherever there is honor to he won for his division, assured General Thomas that his old columnad could walk right over the old countaind could walk right over the ins. As the stormers neared the crest the lines that were joined below lapped, and the uegro troops became mingled with the left of Post's brigade. The slaughter of our troops here was awful. You who have seen a charge know well the in-adequacy of words to convey a full conception of all its thrilling seenes, its grandcur, its bor-rors, and its terrific fury. You who have never

Niagara, when one sits chained in admiration, axing at the splendid effort of a master artist to represent it on canvas, is far from inspiring one with that feeling of perfect awe, of reverent admiration that Nagara inspires when one stands in the spray of the falling waters, and, deafened by the roar, gazes mutely on the secuel treff

If that hill had heen the citadel of honor, men uever would have fonght more desperately to gain the heights. The order came, the charge was sounded, and in a moment our frenches held not a soldier of the odd division. As the burning lava rolls from the erater of a volcano in cruption, so swept the line down the rocky slope. The details of a struggle like this would fill a volume. All these belong to regimental, brigade, division, and corps reports. How still it was before that storm! At three o'clock the atmosphere grew huuid and hazy. A heavy hlack cloud rolled up from hehind the lofty ridge, held by the enemy, far to the west.

Far to our right—for I stood in front of Overton Knot—rung the muskelry and roared the artillery of A. J. Smith and Schotield, who were undoubtedly swinging heavily against the rebeleit. Two powers like theirs at work, thundering against the foe, was indubitable evidence that Thomas meant a general assault. The issue proved the wisdom of the move, for prisoners say that while Thomas lay in eheck, Hood was only seeking to gain time in order to seeure his trains. From my stan point, the haze having thickened in the whole valley, we could only see that a bald hill far to the right was capped with a sulphur cloud, and that a cloud of smoke from musketry and arrillery sifted through the tree-tops just opposite. It was Schofield bringing up against a rehel battery. It was a gentle rain that was raining; not a hiecze was surring, and the calin was ominous. As the troops began to move our batteries opened. the 20th Indiana battery.

Through the light pale film of haze that hung along the slope, I could plainly distinguish the line—ves, the movements of almost every man. Men were dropping from the line as leaves in fall, when the breeze rustles the tree tops. The smoke and haze grew thicker and whiter, as though fairy hands were weaving a shroud for the falling heroes. Figures that hefore were full and distinct, seemed to blend, and what I saw and marked before as individual daring, impressed me now as the gallantry of a noble host, who were wiuning immortality, and enuolling American history.

As we intend, after the first of January to farm out the delivery of the Daily Journal, we request those who, from a change of carriers may fail to get their papers, to Inform us, and we will have them put in the hands of those who will leave them.

NEW ARRANGEMENTS-OUR CITY SUBSCRI BERS .- On and after January 1, 1865, J U. Shaffor will have the entire control and delivery of e Journal from the west side of Third street the west side of Teuth street, and J. II. Hart from the east side of Third street to Shelby street. All of our old subscribers, we hope, will continue patrons of the Journal, and as many new ones as feel inclined, as they can now become subscribers for a week or the year, as they may choose. Messrs. Shaffer and Hart will canvassthe eltv, in their respective districts, and we bespeak for them a kind reception. After the 1st of January they will collect for subscriptious, weekly or monthly, as may be DROWNED .- A German by the name of Fred Fromm was drowned in a singular manucr Sunday night. He was very drunk, and, in coming up Third street from the river, he fell in the cellar of the house occupied by McCallum, Patton, & Co., as a store. The boards covering the opening of the cellar had been removed by some mischievons person, or perhaps by Fromm in the hope of finding a shelter in the cellar from the storm. On account of the recent heavy rains, from three to four feet of water had accumulated iu the cellar, and after the intoxicated individual once got down, he was unable to get out again, there being no stairway. It is supposed that he laid down to sleep, as he was found dead yesterday morning. He was heard by a passer-by to make a noise about 12 o'clock at night. The gentleman went to the cellar opening and told him to come out, but he refused to do so. A rope was then procured and thrown in to him, but he would not take hold of it. The Coroner held an inquest, and the july retured a verdict in accordance with the facts.

THE OPERA .- Flotow's Stradella was delightfully sung last evening. Himmer's superb voice was fully developed; he is a well-studied, conscientions, and pleasing actor; his clear perception of character and his taste in singing had better opportunities for appreciation than during the season. Habelman, another tenor, but a de gravia, and a very artistic vocalist with a well-attuned voice, left ns nothing to be wished for. Madame Johannsen as Leonora has a beautiful and sympathetic voice, with a pure and manner. Graff as the father sang ufly, as he always does. Karl Formes as Vialvolio has fine scope both for acting and singing, and he improved it to every possible extent. The orchestra was rich aud effective, and the choruses were animated and truthful. The whole opera passed off deliciously.

To-night Rossini's Barber of Seville will be given, with Johannsen, Hermanns, Habelman, Steinecke, and Graff. They will give all pissible effect to an opera which is gemmed with melodics.

Another Oftrage -About eleven o'clock Suuday night, five soldiers called at the honse of Mr. Martin Kartlehan, a German residing on the Avenue, near Portland. They aroused the family by a violent knocking, and when the door was opened, they stated that they were on the search of a man charged with murder, and believed that he was concealed in the house. Mr. K. protested in vain. They entered at the door, ransacked all the rooms, and examined every place where they thought money might possibly be stowed away. They were unsuccessful in their search, but revenged themselves by carrying away all of the wearing apparel and bed elothing belonging to the family. Outrages of the kind are entirely too numerous. Surely some means could be devised to put a stop to the bold, high-hauded, and disgracoful proceedings.

REBEL PRISONERS.—Owing to the accident on the railroad below Gallatin, the trains loaded day morning, did not arrive until last night. In all, two thousand three hundred and forty-six rebel paisoners were expected to reach the city during the night. They will not be detained here, but will be pushed northward as rapidly as possible. Most of the prisoners are thinly clad, and they have suffered much from the cold weather. We suspect that a change in their manner of living will prove very agreable to a majority of them.

THE TWENTY-EIGHTH KENTPCKY .- The conibutors of money for the dinner to be sent to the 28th Kentneky regiment innst be handed in to the commissary or seut to Col. A. Y. Johnson, at the Gillis Engine-house, on Jeffersou near Sixth street, before 12 o'clock to-day. All Other articles must be cooked and sent to the same place on Wednesday evening. The brave boys of this veteran regiment will rejoice in a good turkey for Christmas dinner, and, If their friends in Louisville seud ten times more than enough for a dinner, each can invite a friend from another reglment to dine.

FROM SEVEN A. M., TILL TEN P. M -The Cosmopolitan Gift Book Store will keep open until January 1st, from 7 o'clock in the morning uutil 10 o'clock in the evening, for the henefit of their customers. Early this week is the time to buy your Christmas presents, and at the Gift Book Store you can flud anything in the book line. Photograph Albums of all kinds and prices; Family Bibles in every style of binding. If you are in want of cheap books or fine books. buy them at the Cosmopolitan, and draw one of those elegant prizes that are drawn many times

Louisville Varieties .- Messrs. Rvan & Calhoun present a very pleasing programme nightly. The minstrel performances are full of sen liment and fun, and many of the pieces are sweetly rendered. The ballet dancing but rarely fails to win the applause of the audience. The house is neatly fitted up, and the best of order is enforced.

A FATAL RESULT .- About a week ago a fight pecurred on Marshall street between two notorious prostitutes, in which one of them. Elizabeth Parent, struck Ida May ou the head with fracturing the skull badly. Ida died yesterday, and Elizabeth was arrested by Officer J. Weatherford. She will be presented before the Police Court to-day charged with murder.

The weather yesterday afternoon made a change for the better. The wind blew cold, and the ground at dark began to freeze, and later in the night pedestrians could cross from street to street dry shod. If anyhody has commenced building ferry boats to be used at the crossings, we would advise them to persevere in the work, as they will be needed for the next thaw.

The following sales were made by the Marthal of the Chancery Court yesterday: Twenty-seven feet front by 95 feet deep on the south side of Laurel street.

Forty-live feet front by 150 feet deep on the west side of Caled street, north of Main.

Forty-five feet front by 187% feet deep on alley back of above. Four and 58-100 acres ou Kentucky and Han-cock streets.

Escapeo.-Two men confined in the guard house of Barracks No. 1, charged with being deserters, effected their escape, on Sunday hight by picking out the bricks in the wall, and making an opening large enough to get through. AN AUERAY .- Dennis Tevinan and James Mur.

ray became engaged in a quarrel which resulted in an affray. In the fight Murray had his right eve kicked out by Tevinan. Dennis was arrested and lodged in jail. Woon's THEATRE -Miss Olive Logan is playing to crowded audiences. We have not seen her vet, as the Opera comes so seldom. She nppears to-night as Juliet, with Mr. Albaugh as

THE TRIAL OF CAPTAIN WOMACK .- We give below the testimony in the case of George W. Womack, charged with shooting and killing J. M. Force on Thursday last. Quite a crowd was assembled in the Police Court to witness the trial. The defendant was very ably represented by lawyers Captain Gibson, Hamilton Pope, and Colonel Mare Mundy. The trial resulted in the acquittal of the accused, the court deciding that it was a case of justifiable homi-Chas. Smith called on the stand.—Mr. Smith

Chas. Smith called on the stand.—Mr. Smith said, in substance, as follows: I was present when the difficulty took place, on Jefferson, between Third and Fourth streets. I was coming from the St. Clond Hotel. Force stopped and spoke to me in front of the Provost Marshal's office; said he had a substitute that he wanted to sell, and asked me if I knew of a principal that wanted a substitute. I told him that I did not. Some gentleman called Force away. About two minutes afterwards Captain Womack came up and stood on the enristone. Captain Womack said to Force that he did not want him about there, as he (Force) had been want him about there, as he (Force) had been talking about and making threats against him (Womack.) Womack said that he (Force) had aid that all he wanted was to meet Captain said that all he wanted was to meet Captain Womack on the street as a citizen.

Force said he had said that, and that he (F.) was a better man than Womack without arms, or something to that effect. Womack then drew a revolver, and Force grasped it, and shortly afterwards let go and seized Womack by the wrist; then a shot was fired, the ball striking the pavement; they then became separated in some manner; Force attempted to ran in the Provost Marshalle office; when near the steps he slipped, only when in the act of falling on the Provost Marshal's office, when hear the steps he slipped, and when in the act of falling Capt. Womack shot again, the hall taking effect in the last breast. He died in two or three minutes. About 10 o'clock in the morning Force asked me in the St. Cloud Hotel to loan him my revolver, stating that he had left his at home; I refused to let him have it. Upon crossexamination it was elicited that Force had a heavy cane in his land, when he camply hold of the pixel he had hand; when he canght hold of the pistol he had dropped his cane. When the second shot was fired they were some five feet apart. Force told me in a conversation that morning that owing to some difficulty existing between him and Womack he could not get in his substitutes, and that if Womack attacked him he would shut up both of Womack's eyes. Some ter days previous to this Force told me that Wo daye previous to this Force told me that Womack better not attack or say anything to him (Force), or either he or I will be sent to h—l.

Thos. Jeffrey Called.—He said: I was present when the difficulty took place. Force and I were standing together on the pavement when Capt. Womack came up and said to Force: "I understood you wanted to see me outside of my office." Force said he did. Womack then drew a pistol; Force dropped his cane and selzed the pistol with his left hand. A sculile took place, during which Womack shot once, the ball not taking effect. The pistol was wrenched from Force, and then Womack shot again, which entered the breast and produced Force's death.

Mr. Garrett's statement was nusterially the Mr. Garrett's statement was materially the same as that of the other witnesses. He said that when Womack came up to Force, Womack said, "I am out of my office now, and plain Geo. W. Womack; are you ready?" Then the shooting took place as stated above.

Joseph W. Sweeney stated nothing additional.

Dr. Geo. Gardner stated that he had seen Force of the bad been shot, and found a pistol-wound in the left brenst near the sternum, and at or near about the fourth rib, which caused his death. Dr. Gardner stated further that the subject of Force's threats toward Womack had been discussed in the presence of Womack.

The following witnesses were introduced: Mr. Washington Rice, by defendant, was called, and said: When I first saw Force he was in the and said: When I has saw rote he was in the act of pulling off his coat, and heard Force say he would settle this difficulty right now, and advanced upon Womack. W. drew his plated and F. seized it during a scuffle which took place, in which a shot was fired. W. jerked loose from F. and stepped back; F. advanced again; W. then fired the fatal shot. I heard from Cant Swith. and stepped nock; r. advanced again; w. then fired the fatal shot. I heard from Capt. Smith the threats made against W. by F., and I communicated the threats and warned Capt. W. about F. I heard F. sav that Capt. W. was a scoundrel, and that he (F) wanted to tell him so. I never informed Capt. W. of any threat by F. to take his (W.'s) life.

Mr. Alexander said—I heard F. say on the call of Satteniber that "I will shoot the following the capt."

3d of September that "I will shoot the (obscene word) out of Lim." I informed Capt. W. of this threat.

Mr. Moles said—I heard the deceased say that if he ever met Womack on the street he would settle with him; using all softs of opprobious language toward Captain Womack. Some other witnesses were Introduced by the counsel for defendant, in regard to threats made by Force, but nothing of importance was The Commonwealth's attorney moved that Capt. Womack be held to beil to answer the charge of manslaughter. The connsel for the defence here stated that they had other witnesses to prove threats on the part of the deceased, but declined introducing them, and submitted the case without argu-

The Judge decided that the killing was justifiable, and Womack was discharged.

News from the Cumberland-General Lyon's Movements.—The packet Cottage arrived at Cairo on Thursday night, and brings the intelligence that General Lyon has passed down Cumberland river via Hopkinsville, entirely destroying the town of Princeton as he passed. He elected a battery on the Cumberland, eleven and half miles below Eddyville, and fired heavily on the steamer Naugatnek, putting three 12-pound balls through her, but doing no vital lamage. She was heavily fired upon shove Eddyville by mu-kefry, and her npper works thoroughly riddled. The Naugatuck is a light and fleet stern-wheel boat, and, when she was fired upon by musketry, she put all steam on. and thus enabled her to pass the battery withont capture. General Lyon is reported to have 1,800 men. Eddyville Is forty miles by river and twenty hy laud from Smithland.

DISGRACEFUL -Four soldiers in an intoxicated condition took possession of the northwest corner of Floyd and Jefferson streets, at a very carly hour yesterday morning, and behaved in a boisterous and disgraceful manner. Citizens were halted, insulted, knocked down and robbed in the most wanton manner. The conduct of the soldiers was inexcusable, and they should receive the benefit of a trial before a court-martial. We are informed that a drinking-saloon on that corner is kept open all night, and is a great resort for rowdies. No doubt the soldiers obtained their liquor there. The citizens residing in the vicinity have petltioned to have the doggery closed, and we understand that it will be done.

Burglary.-The boot and shoestore of Mr. J. F. Chester, on Fourth street, near the river, was entered by burglars on Friday night, and robbed of a large amount of made-up work: The raseals effected an entrance by cutting away the pannel of the door and running an arm through the aperture and turning the bolts. The door was found standing wide open vesterday morning. The police were advised of the facts, and in the forenoon they arrested two men at the Ohio House. The store-door key and sixteen pairs of boots were found in their ossession. Matthew Moran and Wm. Olin are the names of the two individuals arrested charged with the burglary. They have been furnished lodgings in the jail.

RUNAWAY .- A pair of mules attached to an ale wagon took fright on Seventh street, near the river, yesterday, and ran up Water street as far as Fifth. In passing?Sixth etreet, the hind axle, with the wheels of the wagon, was detached from the body, and the driver, Joseph Schattler, thrown out, run over, and severely injured. His left ankle was broken, his right side bruised, and his face contused. The frightened mules were stopped on Fifth street. The wagon was hadly wrecked.

MAGRUDER AGAIN AT WORK - RAILROAL BRIDGE PURNED.-The railroad bridge over Rolling Fork, near New Haven, on the Lebauon Branch road, was burned on Friday plott by a gang of guerillas, under Billy Magrader. Railroad communication between Louisville and Lehanon for the present, owing to this piece of vandalism, is destroyed. Magrader and his gang of thieves deserve the halter, and we hope that they will soon get their deserts.

The guerllis raid into Milton, Kentucky, is reduced to the following proportions: Fifteen of Jesse'e men, all well'armed and mounted, rode into Milton, fired upon the Dumont, went on board, and searched the ferry-boat Union, and shortly afterwards moved off toward Bedford. Three of the shots fired at the Du-

RAILROAD ACCIDENT-GREAT OSS OF PROP MRTY .- As the morning Express train on the Louisville, New Albany, and Chicago Rallroad as going west Friday morning, it ran off the ork. The accident was caused, says the New bany Ledger, by the displacement or slipping f a rail, loosened, no doubt, by the thaw—the are being precipitated from a bridge, the locootive turning bottom side up. The engineer, hree soon extricated themselves from their erilons condition, with but slight injuries.

By the accident, the baggage and Express car vas badly wreeked, and the stove, in which ere was a big fire, upset, firing the ear, which, with one of the passenger coaches, was entirely onsumed. All the express matter, including a arge sum of money in the safe, was entirely lestroyed. The safe was heated so that every dollar in it was reduced to a cap of blackened fragments and ashes. corpse in the baggage car was also onsumed. The express messenger states that the total loss to the express company and the ailroad company will not be less than $100,000, of which much the largest portion will fall apon the express company. Fourteen sacks of nail were also destroyed by the fire.

There was a carboy of acid in the express ear, and when the fire reached it a grand sight was resented. A blue and red blaze broke forth ud towering upward to a height of forty or ifty feet, gave forth a most pandemoniac glare. t was the flames from the hurning acid which ired the passenger coach. Singular as it may appear, no one was hurt, beyond a few slight ruises, by this accident.

A train had passed over the road hut a short ime before, and the track was consequently deemed perfectly safe. The railroad company are very particular in their care to prevent accidents; and this one could searcely have been avoided, as the thaw was only partial, and it was impossible to ascertain where the earth was soft enough to eanse a slide in the track. No delay to trains was caused by the accident, and the road is now in fine condition.

THE TWO GENERALS SHERMAN .- The General Sherman who has conducted the great expediion through Georgia, and Is now before Savannah, is William Tecumseh Sherman, a native of Ohio. He graduated at West Point iu 1840, dass rank six. He served in Florida in 1841, it Fort Moultrie in 1842, in California in 1846 as Commissary of Subsistence in 1850, engaged in the banking business at San Francisco in 1858, and was President of the State Military Academy of Louisiana in 1860. After the outbreak of the war he commanded in the first hattle of Bull Run. May 17, 1861, he was appointed Brigadier-General of volunteers, and ordered to the Department of Kentucky. In 1862 he was assigned to the command of the district of Cairo. After the capitalation of Donelson he was assigned to the Fifth Division, Army of the Tennessee, General Grant commanding. He was made Major-General of volunteers May 1, 1802. His operations et Memphis, Vickshurg, Holly Springs, and Jackson are well known July 4, 1863, he was promoted to a Brigadier-Generalship in the regular army. From that time to this he has been snecessfully engaged in Tennessee, Alabama, and Georgia.

"Port Royal" Sherman, or more familiarly "Battery" Sherman, is Thomas W. Sherman who was horn in Rhode Island in 1817, and graduated at West Point in 1836. He was brevetted Major for gallantry at Buena Vista in 1847, served in the Northwest in 1857, and was appointed Brigadier-General of volunteers May 7, 1861. He commanded a division in the first hattle of Bull Rnn, and was subsequently seected to command the land forces in the Port Royal expedition. He was superseded by General Hunter in March, 1802. ADAM JOHNSON.-Adam Johnson, who gives his rank as Brigadier-General of the Provisiona Army of the Confederate States, and who was wounded and captured in Southern Kentacky ome months ago, will be forwarded to Fort Warren, Boston Harbor, to-day. Ever since his eapture he has been on parole, by order of General Burbridge. He is stone-blind, and the state of his health requires an attendant constantly by his side. Captain Jones telegraphed to the Secretary of War to learn what deposition he should make of Jobnson as soon as he was turned over to him as a prisoner of war, and yesterday received a despatch from Wahington directing that Adam be forwarded to Fort Warren. The order will be carried into effect to-day.

A Richmond paper, in speaking of the oup-house in that city and its enstomers, says: "These very people who are ashamed to hav sonp are not ashamed to heg the very last dollar from an individual, and, in fact, spend the greater part of their time in running about seeking charity. They will stand three hours in front of Colonel Mnnford's office, secking a chance to beg for five dollars, which at the present cost of materials and fuel, will not make them a quart of such soup as they get at the soup-house. We predict that those who now corn the soup-house will come to it before REDEL PRISONERS .- As one of the results of he brilliant operations now in progress in front of Nashville, under the direction of General Thomas, Captain Goodwin, Provost Marshal a Nashville, telegraphed to Captain Jones, of this city, yesterday, that he had 4,500 rebel prison ers to be forwarded to Northern eamps. Capt. Jones is making preparations to receive an instalment of the prisoners to-day. He will detain them in the city but as short a time as possible, sending them North by special trains.

The St. Joseph Herald says there is in that city a victim of Indian cruelty who has just arrived from the Plains. The person is a hoy of about seven years of age, the son of a frontiersman. The Indians shot five arrows into his hody, of which one struck one lobe of his lungs. He was then scalped and left for dead, but was found in time to bring him back to life. His head is entirely destitute of nature's overing, and is as bare as a piece of raw flesh.

The wives of the rebel Generals Gustavus W. Smith and Mansfield B. Lorell, formerly Street Commissioners of New York, are now in the city of New York, as also are three sisters of the rehel General P. H. Cheatham, of Kentncky. The examinations at the registration office have developed the fact that there are many of the relatives of men in the rebel army now in New York, and measures are taken to place them under proper surveillance.

BOLD THEFT .- A horse and buggy belonging to Mr. Ames, standing in front of the house of Mr. Rothschild on Market street, hetween Seeand and Third, was stolen yesterday by some person dressed in Federal uniform.

The accident on the Frankfort Railroad yesterday morning was occasioned by running over a cow. Two passenger coaches were thrown from the track and several persons more

A FRENCH LION IN LONDON.—The Philadelphia American says: France has received a delicate compliment in the homage just rendered by the udges and the bar of England to her most dis rack about two hundred yards beyond Mnddy | tinguished lawyer and advocate, Pierre Antoine Berryer. But whether the Emperor of the French will feel equally flattered is a matter of doubt: for M. Berryer is one of the representaecomotive, tender, and baggage and express | tive men of the times, end has been distinenished for his dauntless advocacy of constitu tional monarchical government, in opposition eman, and striker were on it when it fell, and alike to the ultra royalists, the imperialists, and ere buried beneath it in the mud. The hot the revolutionists of his country. Invited to team began to escape, yet, strange to say, all | England as the guest of Lord Brougham, he was publicly introduced by that versatile and not very consistent personage to the jndges and he connect in the various Supreme Courts of aw now sitting in London, viz: the Lord Chan cellor's Court, the Court of the Master of the Rolls, the Courts of the Lards Justices of Ap Peal, the three Vice-Chancellors, the Queen's Bench, Common Pleas, and Exchequer. In each of these Courts, on entering, the judges and all the bar rose and bowed to him, and he wes invited to a seat on "the bench"-., by the side of the presiding judge. He had the opportunity of listening to some hair-splitting arguments on points of pleading and practice, which he tried to understand, hut was not more successful in doing so than the judges were in explaining them to him. Whether this arose from his imperfect knowledge of English or their interfect knowledge of French we cannct say. But the gitted Frenchman was evidently greatly gratified by the homage rendered to him in the open Courts, and still more so by the reception and dinner given to him on the 8th of November by the entire body of the legal profeeslon in London, at the dining hall of the Middle Temple. Every lawyer of eminence, from the Lord Chancellor down to the youngest Queen's counsel, was present, no fewer than four hundred persons sitting down to dinner. M. Desmarest, the batonnier, or senior member of the Paris Bar, wes also present, and shared in the honors of the occasion. For Americans, incidents of this description possess but little of interest, unless there be some political or national significance mixed np with them; and though all the civilized world is familiar with the name of Berryer, the advocate and defender of Ney, Cambonue, amennals, Chateaubriaud, Audry de Payravean, and Prince Louis Napoleon Bonaparte hlmself, yet the fact of his being invited to a ublic dinner in London would amount, iu our yes, to nothing more than a graceful complient, were it not that the man so honored has f late stood forward in his own country as ne of the boldest and most deliant opponents the Imperial government, and his career has cen one of hostility to all the actual governments of France, from the days of the First Napoleon to those of the Third. He was born n 1790, at Paris, and was the son of a ceiebrated advocate. He was educated for the Bar, and at the age of twenty-one he married, and commenced practice. His address and eloquence at once brought him numerous elients, but his sentiments were entirely nostile to the regime of Napoleon, and helibored ealonsly for the restoration of the Bourbons. t Rennes he assumed the white co kade and oclaimed the downfall of Napoleon, but the cople rose egainst him and he was glad to esare from the eify. During "the hundred days" 1815 he took up arms for the King, Louis VIII., but no sooner was that imbecile seated n the throne of his ancestors hy foreign bayoets, than Berryer found he had been fighting o install a tyrant-one of that race who had learned nothing and forgotten nothing." Marhal Ney was one of the first victims of the resoration, but Berryer acted as counsel for him, and indignantly reproached the new government with "pieking up the wounded on the field of battle in order to carry them to the scafold." He was unable to save Nev, but he was ecessful in his defence of Generals Cambronne, Cannel, and Donnadieu. His hatred of "legitimacy," pur et simple, grew with his growth, and whenever a powerful advocate was required to ARREST AND BRIEF DETENTION OF GENERAL | combat the prosecutions instituted by the con-Barrios.—General and ex-President Barrios left | temptible Bourbons, Berryer was the man seected. He was chosen a me ber of Deputies in 1830, and took part in opposing Guizot and his party. He was offered other acts, he vehemently opposed the paymen of the indemnity to American merchants fo French spoliations, which was insisted on by President Jackson. His opposition, however was founded more on the manner in which the claim was enforced than on the justice or the injustice of the demand. The revolution o 1848 found him again in a minority. Heppposed though he had defended him in 1810, on his trial for the affair at Boulogne. A barn in which a Mrs. Hoss and her children had taken temporary refnge, two miles from Indianapolis, was set on fire about ten o'elcek Thursday evening, by the wife of the owner, John Miuor, as i suppose I, for the purpose of burning with it the woman and her children. When the woman had made her escal e from the burning building, Mrs. Minor approached her and threw a cup of oil of vitrol uto her face, burning her in the most shocking manner. Her eyesight is probably destroyed.

WASHINGTON, December 16, 1864.

To Major-General Dis:
Official despatches from General Canby have been received to-day, showing a complete success of an expedition sent by him from Viekseess of an expedition sent by him from Vicksburg to co-operate with Sherman's operations, and cut Hood's communication with Mobile.

Beneral Canby reports the probable success of another expedition from Baton Ronge, under command of Gen. Davidson, the details and objects of which it is not proper to disclose. When lest heard from, Davidson was reported as having caused quite a panic in Mobile, and to be devistating the country generally.

Lieut.-Col. Earl, commanding a special party, was severely wounded and fell into the hands of the enemy, at Fayette, Mississippi.

was severely wounded and fell into the hands of the enemy, at Favette, Mississippi.

The Richmond papers of to-day confirm the reported capture of Bristol by an expedition supposed to be under command of Stoueman and Burbridge; also the surprise and capture of Gladespring Depot, on the railroad, thirteen miles south of Lynchburg, Virginia.

They also contain General Hood's official report of the battle of Franklin, in which he acknowledges the loss of many gallant officers and port of the battle of Franklin, in Which he acknowledges the loss of many gallant offleers and men, among them he commerates Major-General Cleburne, Brigadier-Generals John Williams, Adams, Geist, Stropel, and Granberg killed, and Major-General John Brown, Brigadier-Generals S. Carter, Monigell, Quarles, Cocketile, and Scott wounded, and Brigadier-General Gordon prignore.

General Gordon prisoner.

They also state that on Wendesday General Sherman carried Fort McAllister, commanding the entrance of the Ogcchee river, by storm. The capture of this position puts Sherman in communication with the Union fleet, and ne-cessitates the reinforcement of Savannah. The despatches of General Canby, so far as is oper for publication, and the extract from chmond papers giving Ilood's official report the battle, and our success in Southwestern liginia and in Georgia, are subjoined. Up to this hour, 8:30 P. M., nothing has been ceived from Nashville sluce last night, and othing from Sherman later than the Richmond newspapers' report of the capture of Fort McAl-lister, on Wednesday. ITEMS TROM OUTSIDE THE LINES -The Nash ville Union of vesterday says:

We are informed that Isham G. Harris, the out for his mediant is main G. Harris, the great rebel greaser and itinerant, has issued a proclamation to the people of Tennessee, ealling out for service in the rebel army all males between the ages of sixteen and fitty-five. General B. F. Cheatham's headquarters were, several days since, at the residence of Mr. Wesley Greenfield, ou the Nolensville turnpike. It is said that the General expressed an ardent desire to visit Nashville, and eaid he had taken nuch stronger places. Perhaps he has, but he will not take Nashville, nevertheless.

G. neral George Manev, formerly of this city, is reported to have his headquarters at the residence of Dempsey Weaver, Esq., Cashier of the Planter's Bank, whilst Forrest has anchored himself at a widow's in the neighborhood. miself at a widow's in the neighborhood.

The Anthropoglossos, or speaking figure, has retired from St. James s. Hall, London. Though t spoke up for itself during a long career rather ranfully, and had to combat many foes, it dies and gives no sign. The great objection to the roice was not that made to some singers, that it was throaty, but that it was too checky. WEEKLY REVIEW OF THE MARKET.
